

Day 1: Jet Lag

Sunday, 20 December 2009 21:42

---

Well, we wrapped a major location today. Some lovely performances, great little moments and several smashing shots. Always tricky building momentum at the start, and the jet lag doesn't help. Fortunately we have a super supportive cast and crew who make it all happen when you're brain thinks it's 2AM!

Also got to work with an old friend of mine who I had in mind for the part from the outset, and through the magic of Christmas everyone was in the country at the same time! Brilliant.

Tomorrow we tackle London, in the freezing cold, for an exterior scene.

Until then, I think I need to catch up on some sleep to prevent myself from putting cornflakes in my tea.